The adventure on data - from mathematician to data scientist

Mr. Tony H.F. Chan
Swire Resources Limited

Abstract:

Big data, smart data, unstructured data, what data is useful? How could a mathematician join the era of data science?

Biography:

Tony is working as a Data Analytics Manager in Swire Resources Limited, the largest sports retailer in Hong Kong containing retail chains Marathon, Gigasport and Catalog, as well as, renowned brands like Columbia, Repetto, Chevignon, etc. Before that he worked as a Computational Scientist in a technology consultancy company, ClusterTech, in Science Park for 8 years.

Taking his master degree on Applied Mathematics under the supervision of Prof. Raymond Chan, he is more interested in applying his mathematical knowledge to real-life problems instead of researching on theories. He is looking for spaces for mathematicians in the general business sectors and trying to bridge the gap between science and business.
